

POSITION OPENING: FULL-STACK DEVELOPER

Position Summary

Big Think is looking for a full-stack developer to join the core team for Big Think Edge, a disruptive content and analytics platform for organizational innovation, learning and development programs. This position is ideal for someone with strong application and database development skills, a track record of working with lean product teams and enterprise security standards.

Big Think is the leading online platform for multimedia content featuring the world's top thinkers and doers, sharing their biggest, most actionable ideas via bigthink.com and bigthinkedge.com.

Primary Responsibilities

- Lead all development work on Big Think Edge, including user experience, administrative interfaces and data analysis tools.
- Lead all integration work for Big Think Edge, including interfacing with enterprise client technology teams and existing Big Think Edge technical resources.
- Liaise with Big Think's design, product management, client success and sales personnel.
- Drive product requirements for Big Think Edge, including roadmap development, client-requested features, 3rd party integrations, and security documentation/audit processes.
- Be a core team member of a high-growth digital media company.

Requirements

Technical knowledge should include:

- Ruby 1.9+, Rails 3.2+
- MySQL and PostgreSQL
- Sphinx Search (and the Thinking Sphinx gem)
- Infrastructure and platforms such as Amazon Web Services, Heroku, and EngineYard
- CSS (and Sass), HTML, and JavaScript, including frameworks like Zurb Foundation and Bootstrap, and JS libraries like jQuery and Angular

Other experience desired:

- Knowledge of SCORM and other LMS concepts (e.g. xAPI)
- Experience with high-volume content sites and the related performance and uptime concerns, including use of caching techniques and CDNs, video hosting, transcoding, and delivery services
- Experience developing and integrating responsive-designed enterprise applications (3-5+ years)
